1. DEFINITIONS

For the purposes of the terms and conditions of this Document, the following words have the specified meanings:

License
The license to the University of Trento to use the Contribution of the scientific literature or Work by an Author for institutional purposes only.

Contribution to the scientific literature (Work):
All texts including images, videos, tables, paintings, diagrams, charts and formulae targeted to the scientific debate, protected by the copyright law, whose use is offered according to the terms and conditions of this License, the University Open Access Policy for the scientific literature, the applicable legal norms regarding the publishing contracts signed by the author and the publishing house, or with a financing or sponsoring third party. The definition of Contribution includes, but is not limited to, articles of scientific journals, conference deeds, monographs and book chapters, Doctoral dissertations.

University:
The University of Trento, only in relation with its institutional purposes, which exercises the right of use transmitted by the Work’s author through this License, without prejudice to the exercise of the economic exploitation right by the author or by the publisher;

Author:
the holder of the copyright of the Work listed in the IRIS Research System;

IRIS Research System (IRIS):
the archive which shall receive, according to the possible use of the contents as established in the University policies:
• the descriptive bibliographic metadata of the Work;
• the archiving of the Work in the accepted edition or in the edition published by the publisher, in its best possible format (in preferential order: digital publisher’s layout peer-reviewed version; digital peer-reviewed author’s manuscript; digital non peer-reviewed pre-print version) and according to what is established by the University Open Access Policy to scientific literature;
• information on the editorial contract or on the contract signed with financing or sponsoring institutions, regarding the Work;

University Open Access Policy to the University Scientific Literature:
the regulation approved by the University Academic Senate on 29 January 2014 regarding the Open Access to the scientific literature and the subsequent publication in the University Research System;

Libre Open Access:
the publication of a Work of scientific literature along with the free, irrevocable and universal permit to all users of the right to access, distribute, transmit, publicly display the Work, and the right to produce and distribute works deriving from the Work itself, in all digital formats for all responsible purposes, subject to the authentic attribution of the intellectual property, as well as the right to print a limited number of printed copies for one’s personal use.

Gratis Open Access:
The publication of a Work of scientific literature along with the free, irrevocable and universal permit to all users of the right to access the Work.

Restricted Access:
The archiving mode in the Research System which hides the Work of scientific literature and makes it accessible and viewable only to the University authorised staff (and to the Italian Ministry for University and Education, if the option “Trasferimento sito docente” = SI).

Metadata
The basic metadata (descriptive and structural) and the metadata regarding their original context (e.g. administrative and procedural information regarding the Department of reference, SSD, etc.) of a Work of scientific literature.

Digital publisher’s layout peer-reviewed version
The digital edition of the Work of scientific literature, as graphically edited and published by the publisher;

Digital peer-reviewed author’s manuscript (refereed post-print version; author’s post-print version)
The final digital edition accepted by the author who integrates the results of the peer-reviewing process, without logos or trademarks of the publisher;

Non peer-reviewed pre-print version (author’s pre-print):
The digital edition of the Work sent to the publisher before the peer-reviewing process.

2. DECLARATIONS AND CERTIFICATES

The Author hereby declares and certifies that:

2.1 The Work accessible via Open Access, through IRIS, is original;

2.2 He/she holds the moral rights on the Work itself and that he/she does not violate the economic rights possibly transferred to third parties;

2.3 The Work does not violate any right of third parties;

The Author releases the University from liability for any dispute legitimately raised by third parties, either in Italy or abroad, because of the violation of the copyright law and/or other legal norms which impede or limit the possibility to display and make available the Work to the public. In case of false declarations or ascertained violations of the copyright, the University is entitled to adopt all initiatives and measures which it considers adequate, even at legal level;

2.4 As far as the Work archived in Open Access mode, one or more of the following options are true:
• it is a pre-print version of which the Author holds the economic exploitation rights and the permit of the publisher for the Open Access dissemination for institutional purposes (after the possible embargo period), if a post-print version has been printed by the publisher itself;
• it is a post-print without the layout, logos and trademarks of the publisher, which agrees on the Open Access dissemination for institutional purposes (after the possible embargo period);
• it is a post-print, peer-reviewed editorial version, for which the publisher agrees on the Open Access dissemination for institutional purposes (after the possible embargo period);
• it is an abstract of the Work whose rights of economic exploitation have not been transferred to the publisher or to third parties;
• it is a version of the Work whose rights of economic exploitation have not been transferred to the publisher or to third parties;
• the publisher or the financing or sponsoring institution of the Work to which the rights of economic exploitation have been transferred has authorised, in writing, the Open Access archiving of the Work;
• it is one or more attachments to the Work whose rights of economic exploitation have not been transferred to the publisher or to third parties, or for whose Open Access dissemination for institutional purposes has been authorised by the publisher or the third parties which hold the rights;
• the embargo period has not expired yet.

2.5 All obligations specified in the contract have been met, both if the Work has been submitted by the Author, and if the Work has been sponsored or financed by third parties;

2.6 If the Work has been written in collaboration, the other co-authors, co-holders of the same copyrights, have been informed on the decision to submit the Work in IRIS Open Access self-archiving for the purposes established by the University Policy, and that they have agreed in advance.

3. LICENSE TO USE THE WORK

According to the terms and conditions of this Document and in the contracts signed with the publishers, the financing and sponsoring institutions, the copyright law, and the University Policy, the Author grants to the University a non-exclusive, irrevocable and universal License to archive, store and publicly disclose the bibliographic metadata of the Work, and to archive, store and publicly disclose the Work in Open Access mode (free or gratis) in IRIS, and to exercise the following rights:

• store, adapt, transform, reproduce and transmit the Work and the relevant bibliographic metadata in formats and with software also different from the ones in/with which they have been originally created, to safeguard their long-term preservation and accessibility, unless the Author notifies the need to apply specific restrictions;

• Insert the bibliographic metadata of the Work in the OPAC (On-line Public Access Catalogues) and in the international indexes of open access works for Open Access Works, so that the Work’s quotation is always visible.

According to what is established in the University Open Access Policy to the scientific literature, the Work shall always be uploaded in the best possible edition, chosen among the digital editorial edition and the peer-reviewed digital edition, in restricted access and, whenever it is possible, in open access. As far as the Open Access cases and, if the author’s copyright, the contractual clauses and terms, impede the dissemination of these editions in Open Access, it is possible to archive the non-peer-reviewed pre-print edition, specifically conceived for the circulation of the scientific literature.

4. FINAL PROVISIONS

The University has the right to remove the Work or prevent it from being accessed, for legal, technical reasons or reasons of expediency.

The University is not liable for losses or damages of the Works saved in IRIS, although it shall do its best to carefully safeguard them.

If one or more of the clauses of these Terms and Conditions is or becomes invalid or ineffective, this shall not affect the validity or the ineffectiveness of the remaining clauses and, without further actions by the parties, the invalid or ineffective provisions shall be considered as emended as required to make them valid and effective.

Under no circumstances any clause or provision of this Terms and Conditions will be considered waived, and no breach excused, unless such waiver is in writing signed on behalf of the party which would be affected by the above waiving or breach.

There are no understandings, agreements or statements with respect to the Work not specified here.

The Author shall not be bound by any additional provision which may be contained in any other communication coming from the University.

This Document may not be modified without the mutual, written agreement of the Author and the University.
